

ENG 213 CREATIVE WRITING: POETRY

INSTRUTOR: WINNER
OLUBUNMI

Poets when they find out poetry is more than just feelings and they have to actually put work into their art

In this class, we'll learn about rhythm, image, and surprise—the way words can crack open a moment or reshape perception. We'll read, write, and experiment, teaching our instincts to craft wonderful lines and make lovely associations. Whether you're here to refine your voice or just start exploring, this class is about discovery, creativity, and the art of making language sing. Come one, Come all!

We'll read poems from Elizabeth Bishop, Carol Frost, Jean Valentine, Sylvia Plath, Maggie Smith, Marie Howe, Chris Abani, Warsan Shire, A. Van Jordan, Natalie Diaz, and many more!
