ENGL 213:
INTRODUCTION TO POETRY

"The aim of the artist is not to solve a problem irrefutably but to make people love life in all its countless inexhaustible manifestations."
—Leo Tolstoy

English 213 is the foundational course for studying poetry, both reading and writing. As such, we will be reading and writing a lot of poetry. Additionally, we will discuss poetry as a form of art, practice poetic techniques, analyse poems to determine how they are effective, respond to in-class writing prompts, share our poems, and critique each other's poems in this class.

Instructor: Dalan Nelson
MWF 2:30pm-3:20pm