

CREATIVE WRITING WORKSHOP: POETRY

ENGL 313-001
with Ella Wisniewski

Fall 2025 / Tues & Thurs 10:00am - 11:15am / Woodburn Hall 110

— CRN: 80317 —

This is an advanced workshop-based course for reading and writing poetry. Students will have already taken ENGL 212, 213, or 214, and will be sufficiently prepared to write and revise poems, close-read and provide feedback on the work of their peers, and engage with the work of established poets (including but not limited to selections from the works pictured above). This course will be focused on the breadth of modern and contemporary poetry; we'll explore form, voice, translation, socio-cultural and -political influences, and much more. Our classes will be filled with workshops, lively discussions of our readings, guided writing prompts, and lectures on craft. If you're already interested in poetry and you're hoping to expand your study of it, then this is the class for you—I hope you'll join us!
