

Writing Studies CAPSTONE

WRIT 480-C01 (CRN 14828): M/W/F 8:30—9:20 am (synchronous)

Are you ready for real-world application of your Professional Writing and Editing (PWE) skills?

Prerequisites

Completion of at least 9 of 12 credits of Writing Studies core courses (with a C- minimum grade in all):

- WRIT 201 or 202: Public Writing or Intro to Writing Studies
- WRIT 301: Writing Theory & Practice
- WRIT 302: Editing
- WRIT 304 or 305: Business & Professional or Technical Writing

Internship

While enrolled in the capstone course, you'll work 140 hours in a professional internship.

Possible internship locations include:

- On-campus locations such as FIT Publishing, the National Alternative Fuels Training Consortium (NAFTC), and the WVU Libraries.
- Non-profit organizations such as the Appalachian Studies Association, West Virginia Humanities Council, and Visiting Homemaker Services.
- Private businesses including local law firms and media companies.

You can even explore your own ideas and network.

Coursework

We use our hybrid seminar/workshop class meetings to improve the quality and enrich understanding of our internship work and professional communication practices, culminating with two major projects:

1. A public showcase and
2. A polished portfolio of your internship work.

To start planning your capstone experience, contact Dr. Jill Woods (Jill.Woods@mail.wvu.edu).