

Global Feminisms

ENGL 226: Non-Western World Literature

Dr. Rose Casey | TR 1:00-2:15pm | Spring 2024

No prerequisites! Enroll to learn about diverse lives & cultures by reading literature from other countries.

This course examines our globalized world through literature by and about women, exploring how gender equity is envisioned across the world.

Assigned texts will include novels, poetry, short stories, & film by writers from countries including Zimbabwe, Antigua, Mexico, India and Jamaica. We'll also read essays by feminist theorists who connect gender to race, ethnicity, class, migration, faith, labor, and globalization.

Students will gain a richer understanding of feminism around the world, including how women of the Global South improve their own lives.
